КОМПЛЕКСНА КОНТРОЛЬНА РОБОТА
ВАРІАНТ №5

I. Read and translate the following text and put five types of questions to the underlined fragment.

Culture includes socially acquired knowledge, beliefs, art, law, morals, customs, and habits. British anthropologist Edward B. Taylor gave one of the first complete definitions of culture in his book Primitive Culture (1871). His definition stated that culture includes socially acquired knowledge, beliefs, art, law, morals, customs, and habits. In 1930, American anthropologist George P. Murdock went much further, listing 637 major subdivisions of culture. Murdock developed an elaborated coding system, known as the Human Relation Area Files. He used this system to identify and sort hundreds of distinctive cultural variations that could be used to compare different cultures.

II. Answer the following questions.

- 1) What is equestrian statue?
- 2) What customs should a visitor to your country know about?
- 3) What is finished drawing?
- 4) What is ornamentation?

III. Look through the text, render it in your native language and give definitions to the underlined terms.

People become conscious of such rules when they meet people from different cultures. For example, the rules about when to eat vary from culture to culture. Many North Americans and Europeans organize their timetables around three mealtimes a day. In other countries, on the other hand, it's not the custom to have strict rules like this – people eat when they want to, and every family has its own timetable. When people visit or live in a country for the first time, they are often surprised at the differences that exist between their own culture and the culture in the other country.
